

A typical Junior Leaguer today is a college-educated woman who loves to volunteer in her community. She needs to quickly get information about her particular volunteer project, train people on her committee (and/or get trained), and meet with other members who are also interested in her passion for volunteering. She also wants to get the word out on fundraising events. Without grassroots.org, I don't think JLPSDC, a relatively new and small Junior League chapter with about fifty active members, could accomplish these needs. Grassroots connected a trained website designer/volunteer with our JLSPDC member (who had little to no background in html). Together in no time, they revamped the website and created a members' only page, all for free. JLPSDC can't thank grassroots.org more than enough for pushing our organization into the 21st century.

I thought I would send you a note to let you know how grateful I am that we were able to get someone to put our website together. He's still in the process of putting things together, but he's done an amazing job putting the site together with my intern. I just wanted to thank you again for providing this service to us. Without it I would still be unable to put anything up on our extremely old and not too appealing site.

It has been a long time since I have come across an organization or people that have a sincere outreach for organizations that are having tough roads to achieving their mission due to tight budget constraints or lack of ability to compete in the playing field with the "Big Dogs."

Technology Playground, as most organizations, was an organization that started out of a need to link youth to technology in different avenues and by different means. Ever since its founding, there has been a struggle to get things off the ground to the point where it makes the significant impact on the neighborhoods it serves. Getting involved with Grassroots.org has quickly enabled the organization to gain the web presence it has been looking for. We still are not where we would like to be, but we are confident in what grassroots.org has available to help us get there.

It has been a wonderful experience working with the staff at Grassroots.org. As a non profit organization, I know how hard it is to find experienced and dedicated volunteers to do...anything! Your volunteers exceed ANY expectations I may have had and continue to exceed them. I have and will continue to recommend you to others.

GRCN Connecting Communities uses the performing arts to address sensitive issues and topics that negatively affect our community and quality of life. As a southern California based agency, Grassroots.org has helped us tremendously by providing us with a vessel to not only reach to people out side of our region but has also brought legitimacy to our organization. As a nonprofit agency that had been around for several decades, our success has depended mostly been ton word of mouth. Grassroots has been the catalyst to launch us into the 21st century. Sometimes I have to pinch myself to remind myself that this is not a dream.

Thank you Grassroots.org

My nonprofit benefits greatly from our website. More and more people contact us through our website to find services and/or activities for their children. In this IT age I can only see that number growing by leaps and bounds. We provide services for at-risk youth. On our website, we have also put a link on it for people to check for child predators in our area as well as advertise our fundraisers (our only source of unrestricted funds other than private donations). We have really appreciated this service provided by Grassroots and hope it continues.

Grassroots was instrumental in helping SPANCO reach out to our potential benefactors, the press, and people who wish to support our mission through prayer and moral support. SPANCO is devoted to our commitment to send 100% of our funds to those that we are helping in Ghana. Before we found Grassroots.org, we were floundering about how to put up a professional and meaningful web site.

Grassroots made it incredibly easy for me to concentrate on creating valuable content. With your help, it was a cinch setting up the domain, getting the creative help we needed, and providing SPANCO with a reliable, secure hosting facility. Grassroots saved me two weeks of frustration and hundreds of dollars that would have otherwise been taken from those we help.
